“ I'm not even sure where to begin. Growing up no matter what was going on I knew I could always look forward to spending the summers in Florida with Grandma and Grandpa Thomas. They always made sure it was a special time. It makes me think of Grandma's weight watchers cup with the lipstick on it, faken' bacon, and young and the restless. 🙄 Grandma Thomas was all about family and would do anything to help out in any way she could. She helped me so much with the girls. Even with all of her issues with her health she didn't complain about them. There was never a poor old me. She was always more concerned about how everyone else was doing. Although we all know how much she didn't like surprises (we all remember her 80th surprise birthday party 🙄) I just imagine the most wonderful surprise of all when she left this side of earth and woke up in heaven. Although I miss her terribly I know she's with Jesus and I know I will see her again. I love you Grandma

“ Faye was a dear friend of mine. Also Jeremy ,my grandson in law’s grandmother. We met at his and Ashlees wedding fifteen years ago. As souther girls, old cotton pickers, we bonded instantly . We talked about every week. She was a beautiful, kind, funny person and loved her family so much. I will miss her, although we were a thousand miles apart.Rest in peace, my sweet friend..

“ I always lived when grandma came to visit. It meant hitting up garage sales and resale shops. It meant laughter and love. It meant porcelain dolls and ceramic banks that now adorn my home and I consistently refuse to pack away. It meant memories and sharing. It meant more to me than I can share in one post, mostly because I don't have to words to describe how wonderful and amazing she was. There is sadness and there are tears, but there is joy in a completely healed body. A joy in knowing she is spending eternity with the Almighty God, my grandfather, and my aunt who preceded her. Grandpa no longer has to hang around and watch over her while he waits for her to join him. They are together again in a blissful eternity. I'll see them one day. Our hearts hurt and mourn today, but there is comfort in knowing that she is healed and our Redeemer lives and she with Him.

“ I loved garage sailing with Grandma She taught me always to ask for a lower price at the garage sales. She said the worst they can say is no.
